Bromathean Club.
The Bromathean Club at North Fryeburg held a banquet at the residence of Mr. Lufkin, March 18th, it being one year since the club organized. Regardless the threatening rain and bad traveling, a large number of the members and their guests were present.
The dinner was served at eight o'clock. The menu was attractively designed in blue, gold and white, and the dainties written upon them were as follows:
Roast Fowl, Cranberry Sauce, Giblet Sauce, Pickles, Cheese Straws, Bread, Mashed Potatoes, Corn, Apple Pie, Mince Pie, Custard Pie, Assorted Cake, Chocolate and Vanilla Ice Cream, Coffee.

After dinner, Mrs. Martha Lufkin, toast mistress and president during the past year, gave an informal toast to the members and guests in general. Followed by words of welcome by the host, Mr. Lufkin. Mrs. Eva Hutchins, the president for the coming year, gave a toast to the ex-president. A fine toast to the Bromathean Club was given by Mrs. Georgia Bradley. A toast to the gentlemen by Lena Lufkin.
Mr. Hatch gave the ladies a few words of praise and congratulation upon having such a prosperous club. Among the others present who took part in the toasts were Mrs. Ella Hatch, David Bradley and Isaac Walker.
Then the company adjourned to the parlor, where they were entertained by the following program:

Mrs. Roscoe Thompson won the first prize which was a pretty sofa pillow, and Mrs. Doughty the booby prize, a tiny bon bon.

E. E. Holman and Verdell Holman have tapped about 400 trees each and up to Saturday night, the 15th, made 75 gallons each of maple syrup. Both have an evaporator. J. J. Co. D's Rifle Team Wins Prize.
The Rifle Team of Company D, First Infantry, N. G. S. M., of Norway made the highest score at the shoot held in Augusta recently, and received as first prize a handsome group portrait of the team, which has been placed on exhibition in the window of Stone's drug store and later will adorn the walls of Company D's armory.
This is the crack rifle team of the regiment and its present high standing is due in large measure to the efforts of Sgt. S. S. Maxin, Inspector of Rifle Practice, and Company D may well be proud of him and the team made so efficient by his untiring work.

Letter to C. F. Whitman.

Norway, Me.
Dear Sir: A lawyer's business is to know pretty much everything. Here's a part of it, well worth anyone's knowing. Devote lead and zinc is the paint that lasts twice as long as lead and oil. Our agent sells it under this guarantee: "If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in putting it on, or hereafter in the wear, tell your dealer about it."
"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."
If you get your house painted with it, and it wears no better than most lead and oil, you will have good cause of complaint; and we must pay damages. This is the paint that looks as good, and wears twice as long, as lead and oil.
Yours very truly,

Another Maine Poet.

Mrs. Jennie E. Snow Kimball, whose poems occasionally appear in the Advertiser, has been asked to write for a certain periodical. They advised her that they have copied some of her poems from other papers, and would be pleased to have her favor them with her poems. The products of her mind are certainly of a high standard, and show a purity of thought and purpose not excelled. Anyone who enjoys sweet thoughts expressed in verse cannot fail to appreciate the fruit of her pen, and even a careless reader cannot fail to observe a strong poetic talent. Certainly the soil of Maine is doing its share in producing so many writers of sweet verse.

It has been said that many persons can make an entire breakfast on a cup of coffee. It is equally true that many hard-working women make an entire meal on bread and tea. In both of these cases, however, it must be assumed that the coffee and tea have lost none of their potency through adulteration or other impurity. We know from practical experience with Chase & Sanborn's high-grade coffees and native package teas what valuable food properties may be contained in each of these beverages.

N. H. S. Boys' Banquet.

"There was big doin's over to the hotel Friday night," when the first boys' banquet ever held in Oxford county and possibly in the State took place. This banquet was the result of the efforts of George Howe, who has been working the past winter in the school-boys' behalf, and the weekly lectures that have been given by successful local business and professional men at the high school room have been of great benefit to the young men now completing their studies and who must soon make a choice of their future life work.

A large number of young men and boys, about sixty in number, gathered about 9 o'clock at the Beal's hotel and after a social hour spent in the parlors entered the dining-room.

Beside the plate of each was a "button-hole bouquet" and in the centre of each of the two main tables was a large bouquet of callas, roses, pinks, etc., adding much to the already handsome appearance of the tables.

An excellent and bountiful repast had been provided and the enjoyment of this was only equalled by that of the after-dinner speeches of the older friends present and the younger ones as well.

"The menu was made up as follows and reflected great credit on the management: Soup, Julienne. Rolls. Omelette, Boiled White Fish, Egg Sauce. Stuffed Beans, Mashed Potatoes, Lettuce, Heinz Orange Jelly, Sponge Cake, Chocolate Cake, Vanilla Ice Cream, Oranges, Bananas, Grapes, Cluster Raisins, Smyrna Figs. Butter Tins, Soda Biscuits, American Coffee.

After the good things had been done justice to by all, Eugene Smith rose and said that as the president, Judge H. C. Davis, was unable to be present he had been asked to fill the vacancy. Col. Smith made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion and introduced A. J. Stearns as toastmaster.

Mr. Stearns said this was the first time he had filled the position but that he would do his best. He then spoke briefly on the future prospects of the boys and young men present, many of whom, he said, would probably leave their native coty and perhaps State, but that no matter how far they went they would always think of the little village up among the Oxford hills as the best and dearest spot on earth. Mr. Stearns said that from the time he was sixteen until he became of age he taught the district schools in his native town and that during that time he thought boys were apparently made just to cut up and raise Cain, but as he grew older he came to see with a clearer vision the future possibilities of the American nation through the efforts, if rightly directed, of the rising generation.

Mr. Stearns then called on F. H. Noyes, one of the most successful business men of the two villages, to say a few words on "Boys and Girls." Mr. Noyes started in well on the subject by saying he liked the boys but he liked the girls better, and didn't blame the boys for holding the same opinion either. This he followed with a good practical talk on what the future held in store for all who strive to reach the high standard of "Success," and he expressed best wishes for their future welfare and prosperity.

William C. O. Leavitt was called on and responded to the sentiment, "What makes a man of a boy?" Mr. Leavitt prefaced his remarks on the subject by saying he was a friend to every boy in town and then asked and answered the above question. He said "It is not his age, as some boys never become men, that is, never take the responsibilities of manhood, either through inability or disinclination, and continue to reason with a boy's reasoning or none at all; nor experience, for some never profit by it; every failure of their effort is laid to any cause but that of their own incompetence. Marriage only makes them worse off as it is in their case two children starting together in life instead of one, with no desire or ability to accept the responsibilities of such action. A boy becomes a man when he takes up the responsibilities of a man."

Mr. Leavitt said he knew a boy when he was learning his trade, who, when he was but twelve years of age lost his mother and as his father was in very poor health, he was almost the sole support of the family consisting of two little brothers and a sister, his father and himself. He bought, sold and traded, did everything in his power to earn an honest dollar. Finally he started a small store, a very small one, and made a success of it. In fifteen years he built a large and handsome store and now counted as one of the strong men, financially, of New Hampshire. This boy, said Mr. Leavitt, was a man from the start, first he supported the family in comfort in the luxury and he had the responsibilities of a man since he was twelve years of age.

Frank Kimball responded to the sentiment, "What interests the youth?" A pleasant surprise awaited those present in the response as Mr. Kimball replied almost entirely with an original poem and parodies on several poems he learned in his younger days, illustrating the difference in the dispositions of the youths and the variety of things that they interest them. He said that as a boy he would go many miles to play in an old brass band. "Blowing wind" had been principally of interest to him and he had not got over it yet. Mr. Kimball closed his remarks by saying he was sure that all approved what Mr. Howe had done and what he was "now" doing. Mr. Howe was smoking, something Mr. Kimball had not noticed before adding the last clause to his sentence. Before resuming his seat Mr. Kimball proposed that the business men drink to the "Boys of Norway," and this was done amid the applause of some fifty odd young men present.

Several boys were called upon for toasts. Vivian Akers spoke on "Inebriation" and was followed by Winfield Kimball, Robley Morrison, Clark True, Clark Stone and Freeland Morrison.

Dr. Bartlett said the toastmaster had agreed not to call on him to speak that evening but had not kept his word, and as he had been asked he would say a few words. Mr. Bartlett then said that he thought a cleaner class of boys could not be found in the county than of Oxford Norway and he had an acquaintance with most of them when he was superintendent of schools a few years ago. In closing he wished all present a pleasant and successful future and said that if they took each one a chosen calling and followed that one pursuit they certainly would reach a high place among their fellows in the business world.

He who seeks one thing in life, and but one, may hope to achieve it before life is done. But he who seeks all things wherever he goes, Only reaps from the hopes, which around him he sows.

A harvest of barren regrets.

The acting president, Col. E. F. Smith, spoke on "The future of America." Col. Smith reviewed the past history of Mrs. Louise M. Gibson Says That This Fatal Disease is Easily Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. Life looked so good to me, but what is life without health? I wanted to be well."

The cheerers were lustily given and this closed the evening's program.

The general thought which was carried through the evening was to impress the boys that very soon they must come into active service in the world and take the place of the men now on the stage of action, and this was very forcibly put forth by these same men who are to leave the place for them.

HOW TO STOP RHEUMATISM.

That rheumatism is in the blood we are all well aware, but that it settles in different parts of the body, and affects the flesh, tissues, and muscles, no one will dispute. Primarily, rheumatism may be in the blood, but secondarily it becomes almost a local affliction, inasmuch as it gives pain on the surface as well as under the skin. It inflames the tissues, and twists, bends, and knots the fingers and toes. The more fact that it outward applications tend to relieve the pain shows clearly that external as well as internal treatment is needed to successfully combat this disease. Minard's Liniment, when used externally, goes right through the pores of the skin, and so, the rheumatic or neuralgic pain the instant it touches the inflamed parts. First bathe the affected part with hot water, then apply the Liniment. When taken internally, it relieves the inward distress and drives the poisons out of the blood. If you believe in humanity read Mr. Wing's letter:—

LOUIS, KANSAS, March 26, 1901.
Gentlemen,—I wish to certify to the benefit that my wife received from the use of your Minard's Liniment, which she received about the last of January. She at once applied it to her feet, which were so sore she could not walk, and had been so for quite a long time. In a week's time the soreness was all gone, and continued to use it for one week the Liniment night and morning for one week she felt grateful to you and to you for the cure she received. Mrs. Wing burnt her with steam; she applied the Liniment once only, and she was cured. Very truly yours,
L. WING.

You can get the same Minard's Liniment that was sent to Mr. Wing, and you will have just as good results with it. It's only twenty-five cents for a large bottle at all druggists.

An Interesting Little Book.
The "Fryeburg Webster Centennial" is an illustrated pamphlet of 90 pages, published by A. F. Lewis of Fryeburg, and giving an account of the celebration in that town last January, of the coming of Daniel Webster to Fryeburg 100 years before to take the principality of the Fryeburg Academy. It contains the addresses, poems and unpublished letters of Washington, Adams and Jefferson, written to preceptor Cook, and other matter of local interest.

Among the illustrations is one of Daniel Webster in early manhood; the old Oxford House where he made his home while in Fryeburg; the Alumni House. There is Webster's store account from the ledger of John and Robert Bradley. It is from Jan. 9 to Sept. 3, 1802, and amounted to $38.59. Besides teaching, Webster wrote for the register of deeds evenings. In this way he earned the two dollars a week that paid his board.

The result of these labors may be seen in the first volume of the Record of Deeds of Oxford county. Daniel Webster stayed in Fryeburg only till September 1802.

One of the things he did for Fryeburg was to draft a subscription paper for money to be used in the purchase of tickets in some public lottery. The money drawn as prizes was to be applied for the support of a school of instruction for young ladies in music and painting, and was to be a branch of Fryeburg Academy. It seems that the tickets were $5 each and Daniel Webster heads the list with $5. Others followed till $95 was the sum raised, the amount drawn, $236.

TONIKO-TEA CURES INDIGESTION.

A Hearty Meal

is one that you enjoy every bit from start to finish and afterwards. To eat hearty and have your food do you good is as much a part of life's happiness as to be free from disaster; to eat hearty meals means perfect health.

Through the abuse of our prerogative of eating and inattention to the proper sorts of food many of us have gotten our stomachs into a pitiable condition. Nothing tastes good; what we do eat sets like lead and the period after eating is one of discomfort and pain. Something is needed to restore things to their normal condition; something that will permanently correct and more than relieve; something to make every organ in the stomach respond quickly and rightly to the work-call; a remedy that does this will cure indigestion.

TONIKO-TEA does all this and more; it puts the stomach in a condition so that the food you eat digests properly and nourishes.

Dear Sir,—I have been troubled with constipation for about ten years and was so bad that I could not eat scarcely anything, and tried nearly everything until at last I got discouraged. I rest better nights and have a good appetite and can eat most anything without distressing me.
Yours very truly,

Dear Sir,—I feel it my duty to express my gratitude to you for the benefits I have received by taking Toniko-Tea. I would advise all to try it who have palpitation of the heart or indigestion or are troubled with constipation.
Yours truly,

Harrows, etc.

The National Standard Fire Extinguishers are generally admitted to be the best. I am selling them. You cannot afford to risk your life and the lives of your family and animals, your home and your property without one or more of them placed where they can be reached readily in case of fire or lightning or any other cause. They are better than a gun to turn a burglar that may get into your house.

I am still selling the U. S. Separators. They have been improved in construction and capacity and are better than ever. I intend going among the people on my territory soon, to show them the merits of this machine.

I shall handle Lister's Fertilizers this year as usual and shall be glad to supply my neighbors as in the past. We are selling Grain and Flour very low. If you want any kind of a Harrow come and see me.
